The giant and the children

There was once an old giant who lived in a big house with a big garden. The giant did not like the children who came to play in his garden. So, he built a high wall around his garden to keep them out.

After some time, the giant felt very lonely. He looked out into his garden and saw that it was very dark. The high wall kept out the sunlight. And without the sunlight, the plants and flowers could not grow.

One day one of the children saw a hole in the wall. He called out to his friend, "Get all our friends. Let's go in and play."

When the giant saw the children, he felt very happy. He did not feel lonely any more. The next day, he broke down the wall around his garden. The garden became bright and there were flowers everywhere.
